

Das Modern Song Kollektiv is a group of singers and players dedicated to the song repertoire of the modern age, performing concerts which feature songs and song cycles composed in the 20th and 21st centuries for voice with piano as well as with instruments and ensembles.

We aim to highlight the rich trove of modern songs set to poems and texts in many languages, to uncover and perform vocal repertoire which undeservedly remains less well known and to explore the many expressive pathways that composers and poets have travelled for audiences to experience and enjoy.